

Benjamin Hollway

{ frontend developer }

I'm a frontend developer with four years working experience with agencies making responsive, semantic, performance-based websites.

I'm a hard working individual, driven to work toward high production standards. I can work efficiently as part of a team, with the ability to work on multiple projects simultaneously and adapt to other developers' code. Due to experience with high profile clients, I can project manage efficiently, and work to tight deadlines. I enjoy experimenting with new web technologies, and have a strong understanding of multiple programming languages.

Skills:

Vue.js
React JS / React Native (basic)
HTML5 / CSS3 (and SCSS)
Vanilla JS, jQuery, and underscore
Git
Best practices for responsiveness, accessibility, and web standards
Cordova

YoungCapital

April 2017 - present

At YoungCapital, I've worked on a microteam prototyping new projects and ideas. These projects and web apps use a mix of Vue, React, and Cordova.

Alongside this, I'm also part of a team that is working on a redesign of the front end in React, based off a styleguide I've taken ownership of.

Freelancing

March 2013 - April 2017

During my time as a freelancer, I worked with a large number of international and remote teams. This taught me how to quickly adapt to a teams' work flow and code base. Only being a part of a team for a couple of month at a time allowed me to develop my ability to read legacy code, and work on my communication skills.

My tasks on these projects and teams included building fast, responsive, and fluid websites and web apps. I was often given the freedom to experiment and pick my own workspace allowing me to learn new technologies and develop a wide range of skills.

Built By Buffalo

September - December 2014

I spent three months working as an intern at the web development agency, Built by Buffalo. This was my first experience working with a larger agency, and taught me vital team working and communication skills, as well as giving me real work experience. Whilst there I worked on a variation of projects, focusing on creating websites for global brands, that were responsive and met client standards.
